

	1930		The Murder at the Vicarage		In St. Mary Mead, no one is more	despised than Colonel Lucius Protheroe.
	Even the local vicar has said	that killing him would be doing	a service to the townfolk.		So when Protheroe is found	murdered in the same vicar's study,
	and two different people confess to the crime,	it is time for the elderly spinster	Jane Marple to exercise	her detecting abilities.		According to Miss Marple, there are
	seven suspects, including the Vicar himself.		After some juggling of clues and events,	Miss Marple, using her excellent	deductive skills, determines	the facts of the crime.
