

Miss Marple is on the case with two of	of a murdered business-man...	were found to contain traces of cereals.
within a nursery rhyme.	A handful of grain is found in the pocket	On later inspection, the pockets of the deceased	at a case of crime and rhyme...
A series of murders disguised			that here she was looking
A POCKET FULL OF RYE	"Sing a Song of Sixpence".	when he suffered an agonizing and sudden death.	which confirmed Jane Marple's suspicion
	this time following the rhyme	was sipping tea in his "counting house"	Yet, it was the incident in the parlour
1953	Agatha Christie's favorite themes,	Rex Fortescue, king of a financial empire,	